A Comedy in 3 ACTS

by Tom Zuehlke

Max and Caroline are celebrating the anniversary of their meeting with dinner and a romantic evening. Or so they think. A visit by Caroline's sister, a duplicate of grandma's cherished necklace (or is it), a misspelled aunt's name, affairs, and drugs all add their complications to the evening. A story with more twists and turns than a corkscrew store eventually climaxes at life's third act. (Adult language and situations)

On February 21st, the Village Playhouse will perform A Comedy in Three Acts at the Al. Ringling Theatre in Baraboo, Wisconsin at the Wisconsin State Community Theatre Festival. The show will be competing against other community theatres for the privilege of representing the state at the Great Lakes Regional festival which could lead to the chance to perform at national and international festivals. Come see great theatre while helping to offset the many expenses associated with representing the Village Playhouse at the state festival.
